Project Proposal – Diary

Our group, Sixth Sense, have decided to go for a Diary system where in it can do CRUD element. Create, update, and delete method. Then users can create their own account in the system allowing them to have their own personal space to input their notes. As I have said, they can also do an update and delete their notes as well as their profile if they want to. This Diary system can make allows them to create a note with a text and can also add some images to their notes. Another feature of the system is that upon creating the note/s that the user created it will also do a time stamp feature so that the user knows when the note/s are created.
